The Early Years

Lady Gaga was born Stefani Joanne Angelina Germanotta in New York City on March 28, 1986. Her parents, Joseph and Cynthia Germanotta, were both Italian-American. Gaga began taking piano lessons at the age of four, and she quickly developed a passion for music.

Gaga attended the Convent of the Sacred Heart, an all-girls Catholic school in New York City. She was a good student, but she also struggled with anxiety and depression. Gaga began writing songs as a way to cope with her mental health struggles, and she soon realized that she had a talent for songwriting.

After graduating from high school, Gaga attended New York University's Tisch School of the Arts. She studied music and theater, and she began performing in local clubs and open mics. Gaga dropped out of NYU after two years to pursue her music career full-time.

The Rise to Stardom

In 2008, Lady Gaga signed a contract with Interscope Records. She released her debut album, The Fame, in 2008. The album was a commercial success, and it spawned the hit singles "Just Dance" and "Poker Face."

Gaga's second album, Born This Way, was released in 2011. The album was even more successful than her debut, and it spawned the hit singles "Born This Way" and "Judas." Gaga's third album, Artpop, was released in 2013. The album was not as commercially successful as her previous two albums, but it was still a critical success.

Gaga has continued to release music and tour the world throughout the 2010s. She has won numerous awards, including 12 Grammy Awards and an Academy Award. Gaga is one of the most successful and influential pop stars of our time.

The Challenges
