- Casting on: Dover knitters use a variety of casting on methods, including the long-tail cast on, the knitted cast on, and the provisional cast on.
- Knitting stitches: The basic knitting stitch in Dover knitting is the knit stitch. Knitters also use a variety of other stitches, such as the purl stitch, the slip stitch, and the cable stitch.
- Increasing and decreasing: Dover knitters use a variety of techniques to increase and decrease stitches, such as the knit two together stitch and the slip one knit two together stitch.
- Finishing: Once the knitting is complete, Dover knitters use a variety of finishing techniques, such as blocking, seaming, and embellishing.

Dover knitting patterns are typically written in a chart format. The charts show the placement of the stitches in each row. Dover knitters can find a wide range of patterns for free online or in books and magazines.

- Casting on: To cast on in Dover knitting, knitters use a long-tail cast on. To do this, make a slip knot and place it on the left-hand needle. Hold the yarn in your right hand and use the right-hand needle to pick up the yarn and pass it through the loop on the left-hand needle. Slide the new loop onto the left-hand needle and repeat until you have the desired number of stitches.

- Knitting stitches: To knit a stitch, insert the right-hand needle into the front of the stitch on the left-hand needle. Hook the yarn with the right-hand needle and pull it through the stitch. Slide the new loop onto the right-hand needle and drop the old loop off the left-hand needle.
- Increasing and decreasing: To increase a stitch, knit two stitches into the same stitch. To decrease a stitch, slip one stitch knitwise, knit the next stitch, and then pass the slipped stitch over the knitted stitch.
- Finishing: To finish a Dover knitting project, knitters typically block the piece. This involves wetting the piece and then stretching it to the desired shape and size. Knitters may also seam the piece together and add embellishments, such as beads or embroidery.

Crochet is a versatile and portable needlework technique that uses a hooked needle to create loops of yarn or thread. Crocheters can create a wide variety of items, including garments, accessories, home décor, and toys.

- Holding the hook and yarn: Crocheters hold the hook in their right hand and the yarn in their left hand. The hook is inserted into the loop of yarn and then pulled through to create a new loop.
- Basic stitches: The basic crochet stitch is the single crochet stitch. Crocheters also use a variety of other stitches, such as the double crochet stitch, the triple crochet stitch, and the slip stitch.
- Increasing and decreasing: Crocheters use a variety of techniques to increase and decrease stitches, such as the increase one stitch stitch and the decrease one stitch stitch.

- Finishing: Once the crocheting is complete, crocheters use a variety of finishing techniques, such as blocking, seaming, and embellishing.

Crochet patterns are typically written in a chart format. The charts show the placement of the stitches in each row. Crocheters can find a wide range of patterns for free online or in books and magazines.

- Holding the hook and yarn: Hold the hook in your right hand and the yarn in your left hand. Wrap the yarn around the hook from back to front and then insert the hook into the next stitch.
- Single crochet stitch: Hook the yarn and pull up a loop. Yarn over the hook and pull through both loops on the hook.
- Increasing and decreasing: To increase one stitch, yarn over the hook twice and then pull up a loop. Yarn over the hook again and pull through all three loops on the hook. To decrease one stitch, yarn over the hook and insert the hook into the next two stitches. Yarn over the hook and pull through all three loops on the hook.
- Finishing: To finish a crochet project, crocheters typically block the piece. This involves wetting the piece and then stretching it to the desired shape and size. Crocheters may also seam the piece together and add embellishments, such as beads or embroidery.

Tatting is a delicate and intricate needlework technique that uses a shuttle to create knotted loops of thread. Tatters create a wide variety of items, including lace, edgings, and jewelry.

- Holding the shuttle: Tatters hold the shuttle in their right hand and the thread in their left hand. The shuttle is passed through the loop of thread and then used to create a knot
