

Translated With Commentary By Frazer 1898: An Exploration of Classical Mythology and Ancient History

Translated With Commentary By Frazer 1898 is a six-volume work by Sir James George Frazer, a Scottish anthropologist and folklorist, that provides a comprehensive translation of the ancient Greek text known as the Bibliotheca historica (Historical Library) by Diodorus Siculus. The Bibliotheca historica is a monumental work that covers the history of the world from the creation of the universe to the time of Diodorus, who lived in the 1st century BC. Frazer's translation is accompanied by extensive commentary, which provides historical and mythological context for the text, as well as Frazer's own interpretations of the material. Translated With Commentary By Frazer 1898 is a valuable resource for scholars of classical mythology and ancient history.

About Diodorus Siculus

Diodorus Siculus was a Greek historian who lived in the 1st century BC. He was born in Agyrium, Sicily, and is therefore often referred to as Diodorus Siculus, which means "Diodorus of Sicily." Diodorus was a prolific writer, and his most famous work is the Bibliotheca historica, a 40-volume history of the world from the creation of the universe to the time of Diodorus. The Bibliotheca historica is a valuable source of information about ancient history, and it is one of the few surviving works that provides a comprehensive overview of the history of the ancient world.

About Sir James George Frazer

Sir James George Frazer was a Scottish anthropologist and folklorist who lived from 1854 to 1941. He is best known for his work on the comparative study of religion and mythology, particularly his 12-volume work The Golden Bough, which was first published in 1890. Frazer's work has had a profound influence on the study of religion and mythology, and he is considered one of the most important anthropologists of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The Bibliotheca historica

The Bibliotheca historica is a 40-volume history of the world from the creation of the universe to the time of Diodorus, who lived in the 1st century BC. The work is divided into three parts: the first part covers the history of the ancient world from the creation of the universe to the Trojan War; the second part covers the history of the Greek world from the Trojan War to the death of Alexander the Great; and the third part covers the history of the Roman world from the founding of Rome to the time of Diodorus. The Bibliotheca historica is a valuable source of information about ancient history, and it is one of the few surviving works that provides a comprehensive overview of the history of the ancient world.
