This guide will provide you with all the information you need to decide what to do with your finished embroidery projects. We'll cover everything from choosing the right frame to mounting your embroidery to preserving it for years to come.

Displaying Your Finished Embroidery

One of the most popular ways to display finished embroidery is to frame it. Framing your embroidery will protect it from dust and dirt, and it will also give it a more polished look. When choosing a frame for your embroidery, be sure to select one that is the right size and style for your project. You should also consider the matting that you will use for your embroidery. Matting will help to protect your embroidery from the glass in the frame, and it will also give it a more finished look.

If you don't want to frame your embroidery, there are other ways to display it. You could hang it on a wall using a tapestry rod, or you could display it on a shelf or mantle. You could also use your embroidery to create a pillow, a quilt, or even a piece of clothing.

Preserving Your Finished Embroidery

It is important to preserve your finished embroidery so that it can be enjoyed for years to come. Here are a few tips for preserving your embroidery:

- * Store your embroidery in a cool, dry place.
- * Avoid exposing your embroidery to direct sunlight.
- * If your embroidery gets dirty, you can gently clean it with a mild soap and water solution.
- * Be sure to rinse your embroidery thoroughly after cleaning it.
- * Allow your embroidery to dry completely before storing it.

Enjoying Your Finished Embroidery

Once you've finished your embroidery project, take some time to enjoy it! Display it in your home, give it as a gift, or use it to create something new. No matter what you decide to do with it, your finished embroidery project is a testament to your creativity and skill.
